We all have our problems and it is a constant battle just to stay even. When someone gets ahead in this particular war ... we salute them and encourage them to share their secret for success.

The Elba Christmas Festival last Saturday was an apparent success. Our opinions are that more people were involved than for any of the past festivals. After the early morning (before dawn) rain, the weather also cooperated nicely. Santa and his reindeer stayed busy, the pony ride was active and also the new attraction of elephant and camel rides proved a hit to young and old alike. The arts and crafts exhibits were popular as was the entertainment. We have decided that early evening is the best time for a Christmas parade. With proper spot and flood lights, a Christmas float

Hustle and desire of Tigers pleases Foster

The Elba Tigers posted two big wins last week over New Brockton and Slocomb to up their record to 4-1 and Coach Danny Foster stated that while the Tigers were still making too many mistakes, he was pleased with their hustle and desire. "We didn't do very much right against New Brockton," said Coach

Foster, "but Saturday night against Slocomb we played hard for all thirty-two minutes and never quit. We played fair early in the game against New Brockton, but at times went totally out of control and did absolutely nothing right. We fell behind against Slocomb and could have quit; however, this bunch has a lot of pride and fought back to win the game. I was proud of the effort and desire the players showed and if they'll just keep working hard and improve, we may be a pretty fair team before real long."

"We don't have a lot of talent, size or experience," added Foster, "but the players really want to win and seem to be willing to do what we ask. We'll just keep working hard and see what happens.
